I have been going to an acting class once a week for a couple of weeks now and i have a suspicion that a girl in the class might have a crush or is attracted to me. I'm going to describe what i experienced as well as i can and please tell me what you think.

The first time i really took notice of her was not the first lesson but one or two lessons later. The beginning of that lesson (after the class was broken into two groups btw) her and i had eye contact, she smiled and i smiled back. Later on after the class ended, i walked around the building back to the parking lot and she walks right behind and then catches up to me at the split point between the parking lot and the train station and she asks me if i came by car, i say yes before we say goodbye to each other.

The next time we also exchange eye contact and smiles at least twice and after the class we walked together to the parking lot, she initiated conversation right after walking out of there.

The third time, we exchanged eye contact and smiles 3 times to my recollection. The first of those should have felt awkward as i attempted to get eye contact. It was extended and instead of it getting awkward, i get a smiled and an hello. I felt good and she didn't seem to mind. Later on, i was standing and watching the other act, after looking around, i noticed that she had gotten up from her seat and walked closer to me. We looked at each other quickly before shifting my attention to my classmates act. Later, right before the end of the class, she walks up to me to ask if she is missing a page of the play and wanted to compare it to mine. She was talking Kinda rushed and under her breath so i didn't comprehend everything she was saying after a moment or two she says "we have the same pages" and then rushed of to the entrance. I stay for about 2 minutes before going as well, to my suprise she is still there looking at her phone, fully outdoor dressed looking like she is about to get out. I go to the bathroom to wash myself an when i go out and passed to the status she starts to walk out as well. I stop to yell goodbye to the teacher and instead of walking past me, she stops as well. Couldn't tell if she said bye as well or was silent but she and i walked to the parking lot again and politely talking to each other before getting to our cars. That was the latest time we saw each other.

What do you think? That was all that i noticed.

Is she into me?

Is she just trying to make a friend?

Is it just in my head?

And if she is into me what do i do?
