At the last week I've met with a girl who is older me. (3year gap) We enyojed our time and met several times. She gave me signs that shows me she likes me. But our last date went wrong... we kissed each other, then she said we can't meet again. Because she don't want to hurt me. I know that she likes me, that kiss showed me that. And the way she hugs me... She said she hates me because of I'm yunger. I need that girl, but really don't know what to do now. (sorry for my bad english)

Hmm. Try to convince the girl that age is not a factor.

3yr gap is not a huge gap in age, the both of you should be on the same path in life. You should not give up if you like her

Hi,
I really understood your problem. I do not feel age is a problem in love. Your story shows that she loves you. You convince her that being a life partner understanding is main factor which you have but age gap is not a factor. All the best.

Sometimes girls are awkward if their BF is younger than them. But for me if you really like her you should continue courting her and prove to her that age will not be a problem in a relationship. She might think that you are younger and you don't know yet how to handle a relationship (sometimes we think that way). In your situation, you must do prove to her that you like her and don't give up. Goodluck!

i think most women think that if a guy is younger he tends to be unfaithful for may one time will come that he will look for another woman of his same age .. so i think that if you really like her and so serious about her.. prove it to her .. the circumstances will be easy to go through if she's into you too .. good luck aw..

sorry to read this..
but you know 3 years age gap is not really a problem..
maybe he found something about you that she thought showed that you're too young..
try to look around

Well in high school it is kind of tough. When you're 21 and older people don't care about that anymore. Like when you're 25 and he's 23 it doesn't matter but in high school it can be tricky because now we're talkin senior dating a sophmore and you know how you teenagers can be.....you're peers can be just plain mean! So think about it for a long hard while, you may want to keep him in the friend zone for a while.

good to hear that you're dating again.It's not a reason for you to split up just because of the age gap. Always remember that if you love her pursue her. Patience is a virtue. Wish you all the best. If you want more tips and advice you can seek my advice. Don't worry it's free.

She must be thinking that you are not mature enough for her. Prove her that she is wrong with her impression of you. Age doesn't matter. It depends on how well you can get along with each other.

Why would that be weird?
Is this a high school romance where everyone makes a big deal out of a senior dating someone in a lower grade?
In the real world, age really doesn't matter.
If you like someone, you like someone.
If you love someone, you love someone.
Simple as that.
And if the age doesnt matter. as long as you love each other.

My future wife is almost 6 years older than me! I don't see any problems, in your case the difference is only 3 years! Are you kidding? It's not a big deal!

3 years old is really not a big gap.

But this is what seems questionable to me:
Quote:
She said she hates me because of I'm yunger

Did she say literally that?

I think that 3 years gap is not a problem. Even 10 years is not a problem, if it's acceptable for you.

There is a common notion that a couple has no future if the guy is younger than the girl. And I think that we should take into consideration the traditional roles of husbands and wives: husbands were the financial providers and wives were the baby factories. So, according men - older people are generally more established in their careers and thus better able to be providers. According younger women - they have more years in front of them to bear children. Do you know some practical samples when a woman is older than a man? Actually I have only one example and it is not successful;(
