There may be many options. This all depends on her and if she likes surprises. Bring her to some romantic place, stand on your knee and present her a ring. What could be more romantic?

the fact that you end up with the thought of spending the rest of your life with her is romantic alone.. but as what you have asked on how to make it extra romantic , i think it should be done unexpectedly.to a time that she have no idea that you will propose to her.. make the proposal a very YOU. got my point? include things that will make her remember of the first time you met up to the time that you thought of marrying her

I'm not a woman but I have tips in my mind that I can share to you. Every girl wants a romantic places. They love surprises. You can bring her in a place that she dream of. Try to put the ring in the food that you are going to eat. Try to hire a violinists to serenade the place. I guess all women will be happy and will say yes if they really love the man proposing to them.

Well.. just do it on a dinner date? and put the ring in the main courses. Then if she notice that ring, then it's your time to propose her a wedding? I know it's already common but it really romantic.

Check out these darling "secret message" envelope necklaces! It looks like you are just giving her a nice piece of jewelry, but inside there is the message that says "Marry Me?" Completely sweet since she'll always have the necklace to wear to remember the moment.

Choose a favorite place--whether it's a fountain, hotel rooftop, monument or national park--that has personal significance to the two of you. Once you're there, ask someone nearby to take a picture of you together, and instead of posing, drop down on one knee. Plan a romantic destination getaway for two. When you're on the plane, use the loudspeaker system (of course, run your plan by the flight attendants first) and propose at 35,000 feet.
Fill a favorite room in your home with photo memories from your relationship; you can hang them from balloons or cover the walls with them for a jaw-dropping surprise.
Turn off all the lights in your apartment and make a trail of candles that leads to a circle of votives positioned around the ring. Slip the ring on while your soon-to-be fiance is sleeping and then do a romantic morning wake-up call with champagne and strawberries.
Build a scene of a snowman proposing, and then tell your soon-to-be-fiance to look outside. When they see the snowman, get down on one knee.Write, "Will you marry me?" on the underside of a kite and take flight on a breezy afternoon.
Switch on your imagination!! This is your woman and you should know her preferences! Women are different!

That is such a cute idea, sydney! I would love to be proposed to that way.

Tom, I hope everything worked out well for you! You should come back and tell us how it went
