Ok this girl I have been talking to and like alot have agreed we can not be together untill I am done with college so I can go see her (long distance) but we are EXTREMELY close and we were talking last night and she was really down and then we got to talking about family and figures she has depression and I am ok with that and later she started calling herself a "slut,whore, ect." and I replied you are not, you are a great person I love talking to you you make me so happy ect. and she said that she was no matter what I said You are not please listen to me and I am here for you please tell me what is wrong. She then said she has touched another guys... package...and then she said I love you. I replied back that it is ok we agreed we can't be together for a while and we both will need to be with "real" people but when the time comes time we can be together and then she messaged me: I am a slut no matter what and got off.

I emailed her an "cheer up" ecard and I keep on messaging her telling her I am here for you please talk to me, I love her, ect.

and she said we can talk later today...I love you so much.

Notes: She is very emotional she speaks how she feels. it is her time of the month so that may be a big part of it and she gets bummed out easy.

I do not know what to do she is very sensitive she may have an guy and is feeling really guilty but I do not think that is it, she seems to be depressed.

Just a little advice. any will be good lol just continue trying to cheer her up that would be a big factor if she knows that there is someone she can turn on to when the rest of the world did not .

Try to cheer her up every time you can since she is emotional. But you need to tell her the truth to avoid false hope. You have to do it in a nice way that she will not be offended.

She must be going through a lot of emotional problems. I guess the best thing you can do for her is to be a good friend and not to take advantage of her. She needs someone to talk to and be kind enough to be that someone. A girl can be very emotional and what eases our pain is to have someone to talk to and let things out.

give her time to understand herself. usually girls don't know what they really want. just be ready to help her and listen to her anytime. it's really complicated, i understand you
