Reading a woman's body language sure is an intriguing feat and everybody would love to decode what she really means and finally get to read her mind. However, we all have this belief that women are all the way complicated and the more we try hard o attract them, the more messed up things become. But try to get this it's much easier than it sounds! All you need is to become more sensitive and attuned with her body language to get the real message she's trying to send you. Below are just a few tips on how to read her signs of flirting and finally unravel the five sexy moves she wants you too!

1) Get focused on her eyes. It's one way of knowing some of the things she wants to express but cannot tell you. It's been a trend since the beginning of time - it is a woman's job to send mixed signals and it is up to the men to pursue them or not. Although this has been a bit of frustrating, it never ceases to exist until now.

2) Initiate the first move and see what happens. When she starts to get all teasing and playful with you - meaning she maintains eye contact, grins and giggles at your jokes and all that stuff, go ahead and do the first move on her. She might just be actually dying for you to do so.

3) Listen to what she's saying. When women start to talk too much and louder and have a sudden interest in details, it means it's a green light. She definitely wants you to be more attentive and to give your uttermost focus on her. Women can be such attention-grabbers, I tell you.

4) Observe if she's in a friendly happy mood. When a girl is attracted to you, expect that she's in a more hyper and happier mood when you're around. That simply and obviously shows that she wants to have you around and seeing you definitely lifts up her spirits and makes her feel good.

5) Flirt back at her. Your seduction maneuvers and skills on reading her body language will all be useless if you don't flirt at her. It's like waiting for that ice cream to melt under the sun right under your nose - so why don't go on and get a bite? It's pretty simple sometimes you need to give in to your impulses and just go with the flow.
