

---

Subject: I'm confused...

Posted by Lily Etoilée on Thu, 04 Apr 2019 05:10:26 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi,

I'm on a long distance friendship but I think I like my friend in a different way but I'm not sure about his feelings...

We have been friends for a long time but to be honest, it's a bit confusing because he has already asked me out and told me he loves me but we ended up saying it would be too hard because of the distance (there's like 5 thousand miles between us)

But he also (I think it was after he "asked me out") talked to me about his ex-girlfriend, that he misses her and he still loves her so I'm a bit lost about what he's truly feeling...

I would like to confess to him but I'm not sure it's a good idea because I'm a bit afraid about long distance relationship... I'm not even sure we'll see each other (soon or not) even though he seems to be.

So should I wait some time for him to know better about his feelings (if he doesn't) to confess to him?

Or should I just try to move on..?

Do you have any advice please?

Thank you

---

---

Subject: Re: I'm confused...

Posted by J.Bond on Wed, 16 Sep 2020 10:30:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I'm saying this as a guy though. I've had about two girls tell me they love me. Well, that put me off because I had no feelings for them. It's probably the main reason why I didn't consider making them girlfriends. We don't talk anymore.

Your friend may be different. So, give it a try.

---