Hi everybody! I saw a photo of Dave accidently and immediately had a desire to write to him, to share my feelings. The answer from Dave became a big surprising and changed my life forever! We are not afraid of obstacles that stand in our way. This is the distance of thousands of kilometers, and the issues surrounding peoples. Our love is rapidly gaining momentum, and we could not live without each other. We are constantly communicating in chat, exchanged letters and photos. Wishes "Good morning" and "Good night" become permanent in our communication. But still we had a little time, we have devoted to each other, so we decided to see each other in real live.

The most severe time for our relationship was a time when he decided to come to visit me. We could not wait for the moment when we can touch and hug each other. But the most exciting moment was our meeting. It was like a flash of lightning! Only eyes met each other, we realized that we were made for each other!

We spent a very joyful and eventful week. We walked along the city streets and parks, visiting attractions. Most of all we enjoyed our evening in the quiet cafes, where we can chat and get to know each other closer and closer. In our meetings was a lot of romance, but in the end Dave surprised me with his culinary skills! And I really liked it.
With great sadness we learned that came to an end one of the most wonderful week of our lives. Dave had to fly, but we parted with the idea that we are create for each other and our separation will not last long. We look forward to the next meeting, which will be soon.

We are happy!
